Stores Adopt Uniform Hours — 9:30 to 5:30

The first uniform store hours since before the war, designed for greater convenience of the shopping housewife, went into effect today in Mansfield with 95 per cent of the merchants cooperating.

From now on Mansfielders may shop from 9:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. six days a week. V. H. Lodde, secretary-manager of the Mansfield Retail Merchants association, said these hours affect all women's apparel, dry goods, jewelry, furniture, five-cent to $1, shoe, millinery and accessory line stores.

There will be no more Monday night hours within this group, Lodde said.

"We're very happy to announce these hours," the association executive added. "It's taken the association three months of hard work to arrive at the uniform schedule."

The new hours have been adopted by 52 merchants.

"The idea back of the whole change-over is that Mansfield retailers realize the inconvenience Mansfielders have been put to by irregular shopping hours.

"They've adopted uniform store hours so the public will know when all stores are open in Mansfield and so they can adjust their shopping hours accordingly.

"We hope that with the new hours in force, the housewife can do all her shopping on one trip down town."

Stores dealing exclusively in hardware, paint and wallpaper will retain the old 8 a. m.-to-5 p. m. open time. This, too, is for the convenience of the contractors and workmen who must get supplies early in the day for their work.

Stores cooperating in the uniform store hour schedule include: O'Neils, Kobacker's, R. B. Maxwell, J. C. Penney, Scattergood's, Golden-Russell, H. L. Reed, Sears-Roebuck's, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth's, Neisner Bros., W. T. Grant, Kresge's, Komito's, Matthes clothing, Brook's, C. W. Jelliff and son, Sam Fox, Culp Bros., Shaw Jewelry, Laubscher Jewelry, Nick Haring.

Holly shop, Kevey's, Vogue, Knight's, Charles Schroer furniture, Batson furniture, Siegenthaler's, Crowe's shoes, Crafton's shoes, Nobil shoes, Liberty shoe store, Walker shoes, Brownell Shoes, Hostess China shop, Gerstenfeld's, Mansfield Typewriter and Office Supply.

Doc Hamman, Nevah Ditwiler millinery, Porter's millinery, Artwil company, Ash Hat shop, Singer Sewing machine company, Fashion Lane clothes, Penn Auto store and Gene's Men's Wear.

All stores will be closed May 31, the Monday after Memorial day, Lodde said.

WEATHER
Fair and cooler tonight. Wednesday some cloudiness.

Zionists Win Way Into Acre

Arabs Besiege Holy City

TEL AVIV — (UP) — Israel's army captured the ancient walled city of Acre today, but reports indicated that the plight of 100,000 Jews in Jerusalem was becoming desperate as Arab forces besieged the Holy City.

In the fourth day of fighting since the British mandate in Palestine ended and the new Jewish state of Israel was proclaimed, Arab legion troops occupied Bethlehem, birthplace of Christ.

Egyptian planes raided Tel Aviv, Israel's capital, for the 13th time. Forces of six Arab nations—Egypt, Lebanon, Trans-Jordan, Iraq and Saudi Arabia—were reported fighting in the Holy Land.

But Jews struck back strongly, and their capture of Acre, where 4,000 Arabs penned in the old walled city surrendered, was militarily the most important victory reported today.

The Arabs, hit by typhoid fever and short of ammunition, could not hold the moated fortress.

Jewish forces also made some progress according to official reports here, in their attack on Ramleh, Arab strong-point on the vital highway from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem.

Russia Backs U. S. Move to Halt War

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—(INS)—The two greatest powers in the world—the United States and the Soviet Union—threw their prestige today behind the United Nations' efforts to halt the war in Palestine.

When the security council members resumed discussions of the Arab-Jewish conflict this morning, they were dealing with one of the few major issues before the U.N. which has produced an East-West accord.

Yesterday, U. S. Delegate Warren Austin started the ball rolling. He requested the council to recognize that the Palestine situation constituted a threat to peace, and is itself "a breach of the peace."

As such, the U. S. proposal, it invokes Chapter VII which opens the way to economic and military sanctions if either party refuses to comply with the order to cease fire.

Strong support for Austin's proposal came from Soviet Delegate Andrei Gromyko, who asked for immediate consideration of the American scheme.

Israel Recognized By Soviet Union

MOSCOW—(AP)—Russia became the second major world power today to extend official recognition to the new Hebrew State of Israel.

The United States announced recognition of Israel last week, only minutes after the new state came into existence. Guatemala followed the United States.

Russian Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov sent a note last night to Moshe Shertok, former minister of Israel's provisional government, saying:

"The government of the U.S.S.R. has decided to recognize officially the State of Israel and its provisional government.

In London the British foreign office said today Russia's recognition of Israel "leaves us unmoved." Britain, a spokesman said, has no plans to follow suit.

State to File Death Count

Youth Faces Trial For Manslaughter

A charge of manslaughter may be filed today against 18-year-old James F. Stumpf of Galion R. D. 1 in connection with the Sunday night death of Walter J. Bigler, 58, Shelby farmer, Claude Ewing, assistant Richland county prosecutor, said today.

Stumpf confessed to sheriff's deputies that he collided with the Bigler car at Greter's Lake and Lexington-Springmill roads. He said he later manually twisted the stop sign on Greter's Lake road so as to make the sign appear to have been damaged before the accident.

Ewing said charges would be filed against the youth late today following further investigation. Stumpf was first arrested on a charge of failing to stop at a stop sign. He is being detained in county jail.

Bigler was pronounced dead on arrival at General hospital, a few minutes after the accident occurred at 10:30 p. m. His wife, Mary, 55, injured in the accident, was released from General hospital today. Stumpf and six other teen-aged passengers in his car escaped injury.

Meanwhile, funeral services for Mr. Bigler were set today for 2 p. m. Wednesday at the Finefrock funeral home. Rev. Simon A. Metzger, pastor of the First Lutheran church of Crestline, will officiate. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery, Shelby.

New London Votes to Go On Fast Time

NEW LONDON—At a stormy session last night, city council voted to place New London on fast time starting at 2 a. m. Sunday. The vote was 5 to 1.

At the last meeting, council had decided to remain on slow time. Since then, a survey showed 31 of 56 business houses in favor of the fast time. Five manufacturing plants already are operating on fast time.

Foreseeing possibility of farm groups voicing objection at the next council meeting, Mayor Frank Lawrence asserted: "The decision is final. Fast time will remain into effect until the fall."

Western School Renamed For Miss Rebecca Grubaugh

Board Acts To Honor Teacher

Veteran Instructor Active Since 1893

The Western avenue school was officially renamed the Rebecca Grubaugh school last night by the board of education.

The school was named for Miss Grubaugh who has been teaching the first grade in Mansfield since 1893 and is at present instructing the third generation of pupils at the former Western Avenue school.

The renaming was approved at the suggestion of Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller and on a motion by Board Member Dr. W. R. Riester.

Miss Grubaugh joined the Mansfield school system in 1893 and started to teach at Bushnell school. Between that year and 1912 she taught first grade at Bushnell, West Fifth street and Newman schools.

IN SAME ROOM 36 YEARS

In 1912, when the Western Avenue school was opened, Miss Grubaugh was assigned to the first grade. She has taught in the same class room at the school for the past 36 years.

Miller told the board that he felt the honor should be granted to the teacher who has been in the service of the city for the longest period of time in "due consideration of her long and faithful service."

He added that he approached Miss Grubaugh, who lives at 392 West Fourth street, concerning the renaming of the school and that she "accepted the honor with timidity."

"She did not feel that she deserved any recognition," he said.

City to Get Guard Unit

The establishment of the 164th Fighter Squadron (Air National Guard) at the Mansfield municipal airport has been authorized by the National Guard bureau, the United Press reported from Washington today.

The unit will be composed of 342 officers and men. Thirty-five planes will be permanently based at the airport including 25 P-51 "Mustangs", four A-26 attack bombers, two C-47 transports, and four training planes.

This brings to three the total of army units stationed at the Mansfield airport. The 321st Bombardment group (Reserve) and the 55th Aircraft Warning group is already operating from the airport.

Underpass Meeting Scheduled

Councilman Views Plan With Favor

Fred Miller, chairman of the city council street committee, said today that he is "seriously considering" the proposal to construct a pedestrian and vehicular tunnel under the Erie and B. & O. railroad tracks between North Lake park and Lawnsdale avenue.

"The street committee and the committee of interested northside citizens headed by Marion Sackman will meet at the site of the proposed underpass sometime next week," Miller said. "Then we'll look the situation over."

"After that we'll get together with the city engineer to see if the proposal is an engineering possibility," he added.

BOND ISSUE SEEN

Miller added that if the city engineer gives the project his approval and council acts favorably, he will propose that a general indebtedness bond issue be put before the people at the November election.

The underpass proposal was given added impetus recently with the disclosure by the News-Journal that northside high school pupils have been crossing the unguarded tracks at that point on their way to school, risking their lives in railroad traffic.

As the first step toward realizing their goal a 30-foot right-of-way from Lawnsdale avenue to the edge of the tracks has been obtained by the interested northsiders from Jacob Erndt, 278 Park avenue east, who has donated the land.

A petition requesting the city to build the underpass was presented to council at its May 4 meeting. It was signed by more than 200 persons.

2 Questioned In Shooting

BALTIMORE, Md. —(INS)— Baltimore police today held two Michigan auto workers for investigation in connection with the shotgun shooting last month of Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union.

The men who were picked up late yesterday were identified as Walter Galecki, 27, an auto factory worker, Detroit, and John Gola, 39, machinist, both of Hamtramck.

Police said that the men had received money from Detroit. They were picked up on a tip, apparently from Michigan.

The men, said to be emloyes of the Chrysler plant, arrived in Baltimore April 22, two days after Reuther was wounded by a shotgun blast in the kitchen of his home. They came to Baltimore reportedly to get a job on a ship.

Overhaul of Penal Institutions Recommended

State Urged To Make OSR Second Penitentiary

A complete overhaul of Ohio's penal institutions was recommended today by the Ohio State Reformatory advisory committee of the Ohio Probation and Parole association.

The recommendations, as explained by Supt. Arthur Glattke of Mansfield Reformatory, included a suggestion that rather than build a new penitentiary, the state convert OSR into a "maximum security institution" and abandon it as a reformatory.

Under the proposal, OSR would receive the "more hopeful type of offenders," leaving those who appeared to be beyond hope of rehabilitation for incarceration at Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus.

Money that had been recommended for use in building a new penitentiary, the committee said, better could be spent, on two "medium security institutions" or reformatories. In one, the more vicious type of criminals would be placed; in the other the more hopeful type.

RECEIVING CENTER

The committee also urged establishment of a receiving center which would determine to which of several prisons convicted persons should be sent. Until such a center were built, the Ohio penitentiary would be used because of its central location.

Another new institution needed, the committee said, would be one for psyopaths and mental defectives.

The committee was emphatic in urging that Ohio abandon what it termed an outmoded method of sentencing criminals. Instead of pronouncing sentence to a particular institution on the basis of the criminal's age and nature of his crime, the committee urged that the institution to which the person is sent should be determined solely on the basis of the physical and mental condition of the individual.

NO 18-YEAR-OLDERS

Further, the committee urged, "that as long as Mansfield reformatory is maintained as it now is, that juvenile courts be precluded from sending delinquent boys under 18 to this institution to be housed with adult offenders."

Giant Sloth Was Just a Dray Horse

CLEVELAND—(UP)—A mistake in age of some 2,000,000 years was made by two brothers of Northfield, O., when they found what they thought to be a giant sloth's bones in the new excavations for a house.

Ben P. Bole jr., mammologist for the Cleveland Museum of Natural History, identified the bones that Stanley and Edward Mikolay found last week as those of a giant dray horse that died 100 years ago.

"Somebody loved that horse," Bole told the boys. "They buried him with a special sand pillow for his head. But they were thrifty enough to cut off his hooves for glue, first."

Stalin Idea To Get 'No'

Wallace Plan Draws Coolness

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The Truman administration today prepared another resounding "no" to Russia's second "peace talk" proposal.

There was no immediate official comment on Soviet Premier Josef Stalin's proposal that the United States and Russia negotiate an end to the cold war by using Henry Wallace's "peace program" as a basis.

But there was reason to believe it would be rejected even more vigorously than the overtures made last week by Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

Stalin's suggestion, based as it was on Wallace's ideas, would place President Truman in the position of negotiating on terms outlined by the man he fired from his cabinet for "interfering" with foreign policy.

Stalin's statement indicated the Soviet Union is prepared to press its "peace offensive" campaign to the limit in this American presidential election year. Nevertheless, the administration is not receptive because its experts on Russia are convinced the Soviets are not sincere.

Some high U. S. officials said they are not impressed either by Wallace's program or Stalin's proposal for use as a basis of negotiation.

They said the Wallace program is only a restatement of general ideas to which everyone has subscribed in principle but for which it has been impossible to work out a formula with the Russians for practical application.

10 Workers Die In Blast

KEARNY, N. J.—(AP)— A shattering tank explosion and fire shortly before midnight last night killed at least 10 persons at the sprawling Koppers company tar and chemical division plant.

Nine bodies were taken from the ruins of the building along the Hackensack river and a tenth victim died in a hospital.

Firemen searched the wreckage for additional victims of the blast that set off a fire in an adjoining building of the plant.

Det. Sgt. Charles Schilion had estimated from eyewitness reports that 11 workers were trapped in the building when the explosion occurred.

Names of the dead and missing were not immediately available.

The blast, heard over a 15-mile area, sent a sheet of flame into the air over the plant's tar and chemical division. The reflection against low-hanging clouds was reported seen 10 miles away. A series of minor explosions followed the first blast.

Hudson county Police Lt. George Kelty, in headquarters a half-mile away, said the intense glare "seemed to envelope the police building. It was the closest thing to an atomic bomb explosion I ever want to see."

Company officials refused information as to the cause of the blast, estimate of damage or names of the missing men.

Retains Court Ban On Strike

Rejects U. S. Recommendation

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough today dismissed without penalty a civil contempt citation against John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers but refused to lift the 80-day injunction against a new coal strike.

Goldsborough dismissed the civil contempt citation at the government's request but declined immediate dismissal of the anti-strike injunction issued April 23, despite justice department assurance that "the public interest is now secure" against a further coal walkout.

Meanwhile, Lewis and the soft coal operators opened a new contract battle. The UMW president met briefly with the operators but the session was adjourned after less than 30 minutes.

Harvey Cartwright, Indiana coal operator, was chosen chairman of the contract conference, in which Lewis succeeded at least temporarily in barring Joseph E. Moody from the important committee on rules and procedure.

Moody, a longtime foe of the union leader, is president of the southern coal operators.

Judge Goldsborough replied acidly to the government's argument that "the union is now back at work and will not strike regardless of the outcome" of litigation still pending in the pension dispute which led to the recent 29-day walkout. The jurist snapped:

"The court doesn't think there is any force in your statement at all."

PREVIOUS FINES RETAINED

Dismissal of the civil contempt matter had no effect on the fines of $20,000 against Lewis and $1,400,000 against the union imposed for criminal contempt.

Goldsborough said he "doesn't think for one moment that the dispute is dissolved."

He pointed out that Ezra Van Horn, operators trustee on the miners welfare fund, has filed a suit challenging the $100-a-month pension plan approved by Lewis and Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) neutral trustee on the fund.

The judge declared that in view of the legal battle over the pension fund there is a question as to whether the government's motion of dismissal of the injunction is "premature."

Lewis and the operators resumed their bargaining conference at 1 p. m. (EST).

Meat Strike Truce Fails

CHICAGO — (AP) — CIO meat handlers today turned down a major packer's proposal to end the two-month old meat strike.

As a result, there was a sharp drop in hopes for quick settlement of the violence-marked dispute.

New negotiations broke off shortly after midnight without any announcement of when they may resume. The talks began yesterday.

Swift & Company last night offered three conditions as a basis for settling the nationwide strike which began March 16. The CIO Packinghouse Workers a few hours later rejected the proposal.

The union president, Ralph Helstein, objected specifically to a Swift proposal which he said would let the companies discharge any striking employe.

He said there is "no point talking about any of the rest" of the Swift suggestions—one of them an offer of a nine cent hourly wage increase effective last May 3.

Columnist Swings Verbal Blow At Chin of New York Newspaper

TO DATE in my revelations of political influences at work behind the bland, Republican front of the New York Herald Tribune I have stayed up on my toes, boxed them fancy and used the ring. Now we stand flat-footed.

This is not repartee. This is serious.

Last Tuesday night in Madison Square Garden a preliminary speaker, warming up the communist crowd for Henry Wallace, incited a riot at the Roxy theater, close by, where a film was showing called "The Iron Curtain."

This is an anti-communist film. It is belated and insufficient by far to redress the record of calculated assistance of the movie industry to the treason of the Hollywood Muscovites over many years.

The riot against the film had been advertised in advance by the communists so frankly that the New York police were on the alert.

The preliminary speaker at the Garden was a notorious thief and slacker, a nimble opportunist in religious matters and a preacher of the communist policies and program. He is known by the alias of William S. Gailmor. His original name was William Margolis. He changed to Gailmor after he had been caught stealing automobiles in New York. He has a record in the FBI, which appends to his criminal history a summary of his work in the field of communist activity.

Last Oct. 5, Gailmor made a local broadcast over WHN in New York with a guest artist who was Joseph G. Herzberg, the city editor of the Herald Tribune. Herzberg had written a part of and edited a new book called "Late City Edition."

In his introduction, Gailmor praised Albert Maltz, one of ten Hollywood rewrite hands indicted for refusal to answer before the Thomas committee whether they were or even had been members of the communist party. He also quoted Maltz in defense of himself and the other nine as "the conscience of mankind."

Gailmor then introduced Herzberg in extravagant terms. This thief and renegade of both his religious faith and the profession of journalism turned out to be an old friend of the city editor of the Herald Tribune, which professes to be a Republican paper. Gailmor called the city editor "Joe." Herzberg called him "Bill." The Herald Tribune received the doubtful compliment of recognition by Gailmor as "a great newspaper." That would lift the H-T to the level of the Daily Worker and Pravda in his estimation.

Herzberg said the only test of a reporter's work on the H-T was "Has the story been covered faithfully?"

As a test of the truth of that statement and of the Herald Tribune's conduct these facts are submitted: Herzberg is a friend of a notorious rogue who is a discredit to decent journalism and appears as his guest on a broadcast. Herzberg's reporter, in covering "faithfully" the story of Gailmor's work collecting money for Henry Wallace on tour, completely withheld the most informative facts about his city editors friend, or was the victim of editing to that effect.

Herzberg's reporters, as presented in print, did not mention any of the great volume of information which unmistakably associates the city editor's friend with a number of communist fronts.

The Herald Tribune ignored Gailmor's inflammatory remarks at the garden and the ensuing riot.

This is too close to the real thing to be dealt with as an innocent vagary of the H-T.

I never have known of any newspaper in which all this queer business could have been pulled off without the intelligent knowledge of the owners and their consent or submission.

Veiller's Creditors Had Little Ability as Theatrical Critics

STAGE ENTRANCE—One of the memorable opening nights was "The Trial of Mary Dugan." . . . The author, Bayard Veiller, had been plagued with many flops prior to this premiere, and his creditors were hounding him. . . .

Veiller had a plan to convince them all he'd be able to repay them soon . . . He invited them to sit down front at "Mary Dugan"—the first night . . . After Act II, however, they gathered in the foyer, convinced Veiller had another failure . . . While Act III was on they bunched in his balcony offices and agreed to settle for as little as 50 cents on the $1 . . . He paid them off with the advance ticket coin and with money borrowed from wealthy first-nighters via checks. . . . Veiller was "done" with his hounding creditors before the final curtain dropped. . . . The critics raved about it, and it ran for a long time, becoming Veiller's biggest hit.

★

An English critic (named Dick Richards) summed up a failing flicker with these scallions: "'No Leave, No Love.' No wit, no taste, no fun. No good, no like, no go."

★

C. A. Lejeune, reviewing "Captain Kidd" in "The Sketch," found it tame stuff. She wrote: "The producers have achieved something little short of a miracle—a dull pirate picture . . . The film cannot compare with the lusty vigour of such pirate yarns as 'Captain Blood,' 'The Sea Hawk,' 'The Black Swan' and Douglas Fairbanks' glorious old silent film, 'The Black Pirate'."

The lady critic added this devastating box office wrecker: "Yo-ho-ho, and a bottle of lemonade!"

★

One critic (on a newsmag) reviewed a movie star's frontage instead of the picture. He reported: "Katharine Hepburn hasn't enough of what Carole Landis has too much of."

Chinese proverb: Free sitters at play always grumble most.

★

Alex Woollcott's publisher asked him to be nice to a young relative, who aspired to be a drama critic . . . The youth made the rounds with Alec and saw about eight dull shows in a row.

Later the publisher asked Alec's new assistant how he was doing.

"So far," he complained, "all I've done is wake up Mr. Woollcott at the end of the show."

★

The Toronto Daily Star, which got on the American front pages this week (reporting the passing of its publisher) has a drama page editor who probably has committed suicide by now. Bert McCord reveals that the Toronto Star carried a good notice for "Blossom Time," which "drew a large audience last night and found Everett Marshall in fine voice."

The fact is that Katherine Dunham's troupe was the attraction, and "Blossom Time" wasn't due until the following week!

A Barrymore premiere story is concerned with the time the late John was doing a serious monologue in a very tedious show.

As he was finishing his speech a backstage gun prop went off with a loud bang.

Barrymore confided to the audience: "Think you got troubles? This was the producer, blowing his brains out!"

Raps Idea Of 'Peace By Power'

Lecturer Says World Has Wrong Philosophy

Unless Americans are willing to adopt the spiritual way of life and "risk" living the way God commanded them to live, the world is headed for the third World War and the destruction of humanity.

That was the warning offered last night to approximately 75 Mansfielders who gathered at St. John's Evangelical church to hear Kirby Page, California lecturer, author and religious leader. He talked on "How to Stop the Drift Toward War."

"What we're called upon to do today is not to find out what our chances are with Russia but to find out the will of God and the right way of life," Dr. Page stated.

"Our God is a grieving and suffering God because of what He beholds in the land of Russia; of what He beholds across the vast length and breadth of this country. Our government in Washington is almost totally in the grip of the military mind. The doctrine is: 'The only way a nation can be safe is to be adequately prepared for war.'

CITES COST

"My guess is that three out of every four Americans accept that idea. Consequently, the people elect those who believe that to represent them and American people are going to spend about $15,000,000,000 this year because we accept that idea.

"Because our government is dominated by this mind and because the Russian government is dominated by the communistic mind which believes that the only real thing in the universe is material and the only thing that can be relied upon is material force, they're having a race. If both accept the military mind, the adequacy of a nation for war becomes comparative with each nation trying to out-do the other.

"This is a monstrous way to live . . . it was not for this way of living that Jesus died on the Cross. This is not the way for decent, civilized human beings to live.

"If we were spiritually minded we would bring the race of armaments to an end; we would have an international treaty of disarmament; we would throw away our arms and be concerned with the safety of the Russian people and take away our threat of American atomic bombs and American biological warfare."

Page added that the only nation which begged for world disarmament for seven straight years at the League of Nations was Russia.

Asked during a forum period if any of the candidates for president believed in the spiritual way of life, Page answered that Norman Thomas, Socialist party candidate, "comes closest to it."

"But he has least chance of being elected because only a few people believe as he does," Page added.

Asked if the church had sufficient leadership to institute a spiritual way of living in place of the military belief, Page answered "No."

Dr. Page's appearance here was sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee of Columbus in cooperation with Mansfield churches. Host pastor last night was Rev. John C. Melchert of the St. John's church. Rev. Matthew Madden, pastor of the First Congregational church, gave the invocation and Rev. Ben F. Hagelbarger introduced Page.

Lawn Fetes Order Of Day For P-TAs

Lawn fetes—true harbingers of the end of another school year—get into full swing on Mansfield school grounds this week with four events scheduled for Thursday and Friday nights.

Bushnell school grounds will take on a festive air Thursday. Dinner will be served starting at 5:30 p. m, with movies, a white elephant sale and fish pond providing entertainment until the 9:30 closing hour.

All Madison township schools will cooperate in the annual lawn fete at Madison high school Friday night. A May pole dance will start at 7 p. m. following dinner at 6 p. m. under the direction of the Madison Booster club.

Also scheduled for Friday night are fetes at Hedges school and Woodland school where pony rides and games for children and grown-ups will be played during the evening.

Annually sponsored by either the Parent-Teachers' organizations or the Mothers' clubs of the schools, lawn fetes will be held through June 2 in the city with Brinkerhoff school closing the festivities on that date.

Earlier fetes scheduled include: Bowman, May 27; Prospect and West Fifth schools on May 28, and Carpenter school on June 1.

Last Friday night, Western avenue school and Newman school held their PTA-sponsored fetes with reportedly "fine" attendance. Newman school reported more than 500 persons at their event, while Jesse Clark, principal at Western avenue school, said approximately 2,500 persons attended that school's fete, held at North Lake park because of the construction going on for the school's addition.

All proceeds from the Western avenue event will be used for new equipment in the additional classrooms, scheduled to be completed next month.

CITY GETS $14,169

Mansfield today was allocated $14,169 in state gasoline tax excise funds in the third distribution of gas tax funds this year.

Galion will get $3,477 and Bucyrus, $3,632 from the same state funds.

Police Seize Hungry Duo

Detectives disclosed today capture of the two youths who broke into two northside homes Wednesday afternoon and helped themselves to some snacks from the refrigerators.

The 12- and 13-year-old truants will not be brought before juvenile court unless the damaged parties wish to press charges, the detectives said.

"We've given the youngsters a good talking to and school authorities will reprimand them," they said, adding that if the youths should continue to remain away from school they will be brought into juvenile court on delinquency charges.

The pair broke a window in the home of Harvey H. Raby, 496 Howard street, and later entered the home of Conrad Sheetz jr., 490 Tracy street, and took some food and a bottle of milk from the refrigerator. Nothing was taken from the Raby home.

Kindergarten Plea Rejected

Kindergartens will not be a part of the Mansfield school system—at least not in the immediate future.

W. L. Miller, superintendent of schools, in his monthly report to the board of education last night, explained to the members that he was approached by a committee of the Child Study club on the subject of kindergartens.

He said that he told the committee, headed by Helen S. McCullough, that due to the lack of space as well as the lack of teaching personnel, immediate consideration of the establishment of kindergartens was not feasible.

The Child Study club had gone on record as favoring the inclusion of city-wide kindergartens in the Mansfield public school system.

Auto License Tags Swapped

A strange swapping of license plates was reported to sheriff's deputies late yesterday, but nobody could understand exactly why.

Ray Laughman, 112 Ford street told deputies his son, Kitridge, took the family car to Vetsville. While it was parked there, someone took off the rear license plate, replacing it with a one stolen from another car, belonging to a Vetsville resident.

Laughman returned the plate to the Vetsville man from whom it was taken. His own missing plate hasn't turned up.

TB Bids Due Tomorrow

Bids for building the proposed Richland county tuberculosis sanatorium will be opened tomorrow noon in the county commissioner's office.

Bids have been asked on the general construction, elevators, electrical work, plumbing and heating.

The TB tuberculosis commission has $700,000 voted in two bond issues, and a grant of $104,566 in federal money, to build the hospital.

The five-story, 84-bed structure will go up on a gift site, on State Route 39, southeast of Mansfield.

The first contract bids on the project were rejected because some of them topped the architect's estimates.

OPENING PLANNED

Plans are being completed for the grand opening of the Sons of Italy club rooms at 37½ West Fifth street next Saturday.

STILL DUCKS—

Thirteen-year-old Patsy Edmonstone is no end worried about her two pets, which she maintains are ducks, but which her mother, Mrs. Charles Edmonstone, says "are drakes, really." The two ducks (or drakes) were given to Patsy on Easter, 1946, were promptly named "Pick" and "Pat" and have been Patsy's pets ever since. Saturday night, sometime after 10:30, the two ducks (or drakes) were spirited away from the Edmonstone home at 1035 Park avenue west. Patsy still is hopeful that whoever "let the ducks follow them home" will realize that at two-year-olds, they'd be too tough for the roasting pan, and that anyway, such would be no way to treat her pets. She'd like to have Pick and Pat back, and she's sure her ducks (or drakes) are very unhappy away from home.

THANKS—

A policeman braved good-natured joshing by pedestrians during the heavy rain last night but won the silent thanks of passing motorists. While rain fell heavily, the policeman armed himself with a broom and spent several minutes sweeping broken glass from the intersection of Park avenue west and Walnut street. Drivers drove carefully around him, grateful that one of "Mansfield's finest" had the forethought to protect their tires despite the heavy rain.

Sells a native of Bellville, came to Mansfield in 1918. After serving as a sheriff's deputy from 1919 to 1923, he won election as sheriff and served from 1923 to 1927. For the next 14 years Sells was employed as a guard at the Ohio State reformatory and was in charge of the painting of the buildings when he left in 1943. He then worked as a mailhandler at the post office for three years, retiring in 1946.

Board Asks Bids on Newman School

Project Plans Given OK

Offers To Be Received June 17

Plans and specifications for the new Newman school on Central avenue were approved last night by the board of education which authorized the board clerk to advertise for bids for the construction of the building.

The deadline for the receipt of the bids was set at noon, June 17, when bids for the school, along with a sewage disposal unit for the Roseland school, will be opened.

The plans were presented to the board by Architect Charles Conklin.

PART OF BIG PROJECT

The Newman school is part of the $2,000,000 grade school and library construction program. Other units in the program which are now under construction include the new West Fifth and Roseland buildings and the Western Avenue addition.

The new Newman building will be one story high. It will contain 14 classrooms, a public library, a lunchroom and a gymnasium.

The present Newman school will be abandoned soon after the completion of the new red-brick, "U" shaped building which will cost an estimated $350,000.

Western Tops Attendance List

The Western elementary school topped all other Mansfield schools in percentage of attendance for the third straight month in April, the report of Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller to the board of education showed last night.

The school reported a percentage of 96.75, more than two percentage points better than last month. The Newman school had the second best record with 94.56 per cent and Woodland school was third with 93.35.

Six schools did not report a single truancy case during the period from March 22 to April 30. They are Brinkerhoff, Bushnell, Prospect, Western, West Fifth and Woodland.

Braves Hold Third Place In National

By JOE REICHLER
(AP Sports Writer)

They may rave about the wonderful St. Louis Cardinal pitching staff. They may gape in awe at the New York Giants' devastating power. They may admire and envy Brooklyn's depth with its youth and speed. The solid team in the National league, however, is the Boston Braves.

Boston is not in first place. The Braves are third, but only because they got off to a miserable start. They dropped six of their first seven games.

BEST BY FAR

Since then Boston has won 11 and lost four, the best record by far, in the circuit for the period. Billy Southworth's men haven't lost since May 9.

They open a 14-game home stand tonight, boasting the league's No. 1 pitcher in Bill Voiselle, No. 2 batter in Tommy Holmes, the best fielding percentage of any club in the circuit and a four-game winning streak.

The Braves ended a successful road trip last night by crushing the Dodgers in Brooklyn, 12-3. It marked their fourth straight win over Brooklyn without a setback. It also gave them a record of eight victories in 11 road games.

No team in the league—and that includes the Cardinals—boasts three front line hurlers such as Boston's Johnny Sain, Warren Spahn and Voiselle. This trio has given up only three runs in Boston's last four games.

HOT PHILLIES

Another hot club, the Philadelphia Phils, defeated the New York Giants 7-1. The victory moved the Phils up to fourth place, only three percentage points behind the Braves.

Johnny Blatnik paced the Phils' 10-hit attack against Bobo Newsom and three successors. The rookie outfielder, picked up in the draft last fall, cracked three hits in four times up to wrest the league's batting leadership from Holmes with .438 to .435. He has hit safely in nine consecutive games.

Those were the only games scheduled in the majors.

Qualifying Round To Be Tomorrow In PGA Tourney

ST. LOUIS—(INS)—Golf balls flew and rolled today all over the fairways and greens of the Norwood hills country club in St. Louis county in preparation for the professional golfers association tournament.

The activity presented the final warm-up for some 140 entries in tomorrow's curtain-raiser on the week-long 30th annual PGA play over the 6,467 yard, par-71 course.

Lloyd Mangrum, leading money-winner of the current campaign, observed that the field for this year's tourney is one of the finest in many years.

The action begins with an 18-hole qualifying medal round tomorrow and a repetition of the same on Thursday.

The low 63 scorers and defending champion Jim Ferrier start man-to-man duels on Friday, when there will be a 32 first-round, 18-hole matches in the morning. Sixteen, second-round matches of another 18 follow in the afternoon.

After Friday all matches will be over the 36-hole distance, with the finals scheduled for next Tuesday.

Springfielders Eye State '48 Track, Field Crown

By JAMES DAILEY

COLUMBUS —(UP)— Springfield high school today covetously eyed the state's Class A scholastic track championship here this week end after hanging up a great springtime record.

Springfield, which scored a healthy 17 points to land third place last year behind Cleveland Central's 23½ and Columbus Central's 20, this spring has won the state's three top high school open relay meets—those at Delaware, Mansfield and Miami.

Springfield won at Mansfield by piling up a 31.7 point total, while Columbus Central and Dayton Dunbar could only tie each other for second place with 23 points.

At Delaware, the Springfield harriers took the measure of Columbus Central again and added their other arch-rival for track honors — Cleveland Central — to their victory belts.

They came out on top over 31 points. Cleveland East Tech, their main competitors, trailed by ten points. Both Cleveland Central and Columbus Central wound up in a tie for third.

WIN BY 15

In the Miami meet Springfield continued to dominate, although the field was more or less limited to the southwestern part of the state. Despite taking only three first to Dayton Dunbar's six, Springfield came out on top by 53 to 38 for Dunbar.

The Class B title chase this week end promised to be a hotter show, however, with six teams bracketed as top contenders. They were Oak Harbor, Lakeside, Columbus University, Reynoldsburg, Lockland, and Poland Seminary, last year's defending champion.

The preliminary events in the Ohio high school sponsored statewide meet will start Friday afternoon with the field events finals slated for Saturday morning and the running for the afternoon.

The state championships in golf and tennis also will be held this week end on the Ohio State university campus, the golf starts at 9 a. m. EST Friday and the tennis at 1 p. m.

Ohio State Dominates Golf Tourney

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ohio's intercollegiate golf tournament was an All-Ohio State university affair yesterday.

Coach Bob Kepler's Buckeyes took home everything but the sand from the traps.

Kepler entered three teams and labeled them 1, 2 and 3. They finished exactly that way in the team scoring, leaving squads from 11 other colleges far behind.

Then, making it all the more impressive, Ohio State's Bob Hamrich carded a 71-79—150 to take the individual medal. A teammate and fellow Clevelander, Alex Poli, was next with 151.

GETS SECOND

Miami University was awarded second-place team honors by officials who ruled Ohio State could win only one place. Miami's four best shooters carded a 650-stroke total. OSU's No. 1 had a 611, the No. 2 had a 627 and the No. 3 a 645.

Denison trailed Miami with 654, followed by Cincinnati with 656, Otterbein 674, Bowling Green 678, Ohio Wesleyan 679, Dayton 686, Kent State 698, Mount Union 699, Marietta 716, and Kent State Canton branch, 745.

Hamrich's morning round 71 was the only sub-par 18 holes of the 36-hole meet. High winds, cold and occasional rain sent many scores soaring.

Stiff Competition

AKRON —(INS)— Ronnie Delaney, former Akron Golden Gloves champion who has won 12 straight victories since turning pro, will be up against some stiff competition tomorrow night when he meets Johnny Chatmon in the semi-final bout of the Akron Armory fight show.

Bearden Gets Call Tonight

CLEVELAND —(UP)— Cleveland baseball fans hoped today that the Indians will have the "Indian sign" on the league leading Philadelphia Athletics when they clash tonight.

Since the Indians are only one and a half games behind the high-rising A's, a victory tonight would do much to cut down the lead the Philadelphia team enjoys.

Philadelphia's hard-working pitcher Lou Brissie, with three wins and two losses, will pitch for the A's, while Gene Bearden with one win and no losses is tentatively scheduled to take the mound for the Indians.

Phil Baker, Syracuse's ace middle-distance star, needs glasses in order to see where he's going.

First Local Night Softball Tilt Set

Mansfield will see its first night softball game tomorrow when Gorman-Rupp and Tappan Stove meet under the floodlamps recently installed at Gorman-Rupp field. The game will start at 8:30 p. m.

The lights are said to be the best softball lamps in the state and will give the city what is probably the best field in the state used exclusively for softball. A total of 2,000 seats will surround the field when improvements are completed. The field had a 1,000-seat capacity last year.

Gorman-Rupp has practically the same team back which won the City A league championship last year, while Tappan is fielding a team after a two-year layoff. Tappan has won six games and lost one in exhibitions.

DALE TO PITCH

The veteran Dale McKinley will be on the mound for Gorman-Rupp while the rest of the lineup as announced by Manager Nick Weber is as follows: Al Baki, ss; Ted Bush, 2b; Kenny Windsor, 3b; Nick Weber, 1b; Howard "Tick" Hamilton, c; Bud McKee, lf; Bill Carrick, cf, and Glen Ulich, rf.

Simpson, Appleseed and Galion met previously with Kennedy's team winning. The annual Simpson-Appleseed affair is listed May 27 at Stadium field.

'Snow' Flakes Fells Fighters

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK —(UP)— Regardless of who wins the Joe Louis-Jersey Joe Walcott battle for the heavyweight crown, father time was rapidly overhauling both of them today and the future book listed increasing interest in a youngster named Henry Flakes who started by kaying his father.

Every once in a while along comes a fighter who is both promising and [illegible] intriguing. Such were Elmer (Violent) Ray, Gus (Pelle Mel) Wil[illegible] (Bing Bang) and [illegible] Moase. Henry can claim admission to the club. They call him, naturally, "Snow" Flakes.

But the Buffalo youngster, by way of Opelika, Ala., and Chattanooga, Tenn., has more than phoneticism to recommend him. In a little more than a year he has proved rather conclusively that he can fight and the road stretches far ahead.

He started in February, 1947, as a $10 preliminary boy. This Friday night he moves into Madison Square Garden for a feature bout against Lee Oma, the poor man's Maxie Baer. There's a reason for Henry's rapid rise. He has won 18 of 19 professional bouts, half of them by knockouts. He lost his fourth pro fight because he was cut.

This year he has come like Whirlaway in the stretch. First he decisioned Pat Comiskey and then, to prove it was no fluke, he kayoed the Irish giant. In his last start he decisioned Oma, who gets a return bout Friday.

Flakes, like Louis, was born in [illegible] Ala., in a cotton picker's cabin. When he was very young his family moved to Chattanooga and it was there that the father, a fight [illegible], started to teach his four sons the rudiments of fisticuffs.

They couldn't afford gloves. So the elder Flakes used burlap bagging, stuffed with rags and gathered at the wrists with rope. The sessions then proceeded in the back yard.

There came a night, however, when the lessons ceased abruptly.

Henry threw a right cross which stretched the old man cold for 10 minutes.

High Office Goes to Weizmann

Classed as Father of Modern Israel

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—Many years ago a boy was born in Russia who had a great dream.

The boy was a Jew. His dream was that his long-wandering people again would come home to Palestine.

And into his dream the boy poured his whole long life. But the dream a man gives his life to rarely comes true in the way he wants it.

Nor did it for the boy—now Dr. Chaim Weizmann; provisional president of the world's newest state, Israel.

For his entire career was devoted to creating a homeland for the Jews without bloodshed. He thought they had known too much of bloodshed. But already—less than a week after declaring their republic—his people are besieged, clashing with invading armies.

The din of distant battle doesn't reach the ailing 73-year-old scientist as he lies in his hotel room here. But it must hurt his heart. He has always hated violence and terrorism, always fought for peace.

He is a strange genius of many talents — this elderly chemist, statesman and money raiser.

To the average American Dr. Weizmann is only a half-familiar figure. But for a generation his name has sounded like a bell to millions of oppressed Jews in many lands—a bell to freedom, a bell to guide them from the dirty ghetto and the fatal pogrom.

Born in Russia, educated in Germany, Chaim Weizmann became a teacher of biolchemistry in Manchester and a British subject. As his renown spread in scientific circles so did his fame as an advocate of Zionism.

He never shouldered a gun but he played a big role in helping the allies win two world wars.

STORY WELL KNOWN

Well-known is the story of how Lloyd George, faced in 1916 with a critical shortage of acetone needed in the manufacture of explosive cordite, summoned Weizmann. Within a month the chemist, by isolating certain organisms found in horse chestnuts, discovered a way to produce synthetic acetone in large quantities.

Asked what he wished in reward, he replied:

"Something for my people."

This is reported to be the basis for the controversial Balfour declaration of 1917 which promised a homeland for the Jews in Palestine. But the declaration also said nothing would be done to "prejudice the civil and religious rites of existing non-Jewish communities" in the country, which then held ten Arabs for every Jew.

When Lord Balfour, British foreign secretary, asked if the Jews wouldn't take African Uganda as a compromise homeland, Weizmann lightly replied:

"Would you give up London and go live in Canada?"

When the surprised Balfour remarked he had always lived in London, the scientist told him:

"Yes, and Israel was a people in its own land with its own high civilization when London was a marsh."

In the second World war Weizmann supported the allies, offered his help in synthetic rubber researches. One of his two sons, an R.A.F. flier, was lost on a patrol mission over France.

Dr. Weizmann pioneered in the colonization and economic development of modern Palestine, helping its deserts to flower. In one trip to the United States in 1923 he raised $1,500,000 in cash for Palestine.

Hoping ever to win a Jewish state with British government support, he also sought in many ways to conciliate the Arabs. He wanted to avoid a showdown by force. His diplomatic policy often brought him under attack by his own people from two sides- the Jews who wanted to use more muscle, and the Jews who wanted him to give up the idea of a homeland altogether for fear of stirring a world wave of anti-semitism.

Today "the Father of Israel"—a bald, short, smiling little man with a goatee that makes him look like Lenin is old and tired. He has been in poor health since an eye operation in 1946.

Young men must save the state he helped carve out by 50 years of diplomacy. But they fight now to save it as all states have fought to save themselves throughout history—with blood and iron.

Tribe Pitcher Has Sore Arm

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Charley Wensloff, the sore-arm pitcher who was purchased by the Cleveland Indians from the New York Yankees, left last night for his home in Sausalito, California.

He will submit there to further treatment for muscular soreness in his right arm.

Joe Beggs, veteran national league hurler recently given his unconditional release by the New York Giants, worked out with the Indians today in an effort to land a job. Beggs is a 10-year performer and is free to dicker for a job wherever he chooses.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

BATTING—Johnny Blatnik, Phillies—Collected three hits in four times at bat to extend his hitting streak through nine consecutive games and wrest the league's batting leadership from Boston's Tommy Holmes. Blatnik is hitting .438 to Holmes' 435.

PITCHING—Blix Donnelly, Phillies—Pitched a four-hitter against the Giants as the Phils won 7-1. It was his fifth start and his fifth complete game.

Ashland Wants To Use Frosh

ASHLAND—A desire to let freshmen students participate in athletics was the motive behind the withdrawal of Ashland college from the Ohio Conference, according to Dr. L. E. Lindower, chairman of the college faculty athletic committee.

"The college cannot afford to establish an individual freshmen athletic program," Dr. Lindower explained, "but feels it should offer entering students an opportunity to play."

A new league which will probably be formed at a meeting here May 23 will allow for freshman participation and be more evenly balanced accordng to athletic strength. Said to be interested in the formation of such a circuit are Rio Grande, Defiance, Bluffton, Hiram and Cedarville.

Ashland's official withdrawal from the conference was contained in a letter from Dr. Lindower to Lyle Butler, Oberlin, acting secretary of the Ohio Conference.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Galion Teacher To Work With Children In France

GALION — Miss Verlie Smith, who has taught religious education in the Galion schools for the past three years, has been chosen one of five persons in the United States and one of two from Ohio, to go to Europe this summer to work with children who have suffered ill effects from the war.

The invitation came from Le Chambon, France, a refugee area in southern France.

The other Ohio girl, Gertrude Von Reisen, a religious education teacher in Darke county, will go to Children's Village, Switzerland.

Miss Smith is a native of North Carolina. She was graduated from Wheaton college, Wheaton, Ill., in religious training. Before coming to Galion three years ago, she conducted daily vacation Bible schools in Idaho and Washington.

VERLIE SMITH

In France she will conduct a daily vacation Bible school, camp work, hikes, service projects, and games for the children, sharing with them her American experiences. The object of the work is to break down fear and anxiety in the children who suffered such complexes during the war, and to offer a philosophy of life, Christion religion, to help relieve the tension brought on by the war.

Miss Smith will sail June 17 on the Marine Tiger, returning either Aug. 26 or Sept. 21.

Church groups of the city have contributed to Miss Smith's expenses for the trip.

There is a town named "Broadway" in England.

Stock Prices Remain on Even Keel Despite Profit Taking

NEW YORK—(AP)—Heavy profit taking cramped the stock market's style again today but public demand was large enough to keep the price level on an even keel.

Rapid activity continued. The ticker tape reported numerous blocks of 1,000 and 2,000 shares of stock changed hands but with little variance in price as compared with the previous close.

Action Against Deputy Settled

A $15,000 suit filed by Mrs. Jeanette Miller, 218 Coul street, against Deputy Sheriff Charles B. Wheeler has been settled, a common pleas' court journal entry showed today.

Mrs. Miller sued for injuries she contended she received when the car in which she was a passenger, collided with a sheriff's cruiser driven by Wheeler.

The accident occurred June 28 on a Bowman street road bridge, north of Mansfield. Wheeler was on the way to Plymouth to investigate a double-shooting.

Attorneys Weldon, Huston and Keyser represented Mrs. Miiller, and Attorney J. H. Gongwer represented Wheeler.

Talks on Puerto Rico

Speakers and writers have put too much emphasis on "the promlem" of Puerto Rico and not enough on the importance of that little island to the United States, the Mansfield Exchange club was told yesterday.

The speaker was Rev. John G. Gensel, pastor of the St. Paul Lutheran church. The club met at the Mansfield-Leland hotel yesterday noon.

"The island does have the problems of overpopulation and disease, but its people, by law, are United States citizens, and the country must remain as the Gibraltar of the Caribbean," Rev. Gensel said.

Puerto Rico has a population of 2,000,000 on an area 35 by 100 miles, or a density of 600 per square mile,' he said.

The island can serve as a place for exchange of ideas by the North and South Americans, Rev. Gensel added.

Some Puerto Ricans are seeking their independence from the United States, he explained. Others would favor its being taken into the union as a new state.

Gensel described the island as one of great contrasts — wealth and poverty, mountains and lowlands, culture and squalor.

Yesterday's meeting was the first at the Mansfield-Leland hotel for the Exchange club. The group will now meet there regularly on Monday at 11:45 a. m.

UJA Pledges Up to $68,000

The United Jewish Appeal campaign members met last night and announced that pledges for $68,000 of the $75,000 goal sought for Mansfield already have been obtained.

Leonard Hurwitz, chairman of the Mansfield UJA, asked for increased pledges from Mansfielders in view of the present Palestine situation.

"The situation is critical and the UJA needs the pledged money," Hurwitz said. "Additional contributions will be appreciated."

They should be mailed to J. C. Kalish, treasurer of the Mansfield committee, Richland Trust Bank building.

Scouts Entertain Parents At 'Vitamin Dinner' Party

Carbohydrates and proteins vied with French fashions last night at the Richland Recreation Center when Girl Scout Troop 22 members invited their parents to the most unusual court of awards ever held in the city.

Carrying out the theme of a "Health Supper," 54 guests became patients of "The Famous Health Spa — The Maison Vingt Deux — the House 22." As they arrived fathers and mothers were "examined" by the medicines en charge and assigned to "wards" or tables.

Guests graciously obliged the Scouts who were completing their work on personal health and good grooming badges. Once at the tables, the guest patients found themselves ordering dinner from menus printed according to carbohydrate, protein and fat content of foods.

Proving to their parents that teen-agers can be as poised as grown-ups, half of the troop staged a fashion show immediately following the dinner, displaying their own interpretations of the fashion collection of French designer "Madame Collette." Other members in the troop represented famous French actors direct from the "La Bijou" theater in Paris, presenting a take-off on the various activities the troop participated in to earn the health and grooming awards.

SKITS POPULAR

These skits proved to be the scene-stealers of the evening. Medical examinations, conducted by "Dr. I. Killem Kalmer," was a farcical series of operations in which the doctor extracted spray guns and mail boxes.

The next skit showed a visit to the Wiener Figure Perfection studio where finger exercises were guaranteed to produce a svelte figure—thhe "New Wiener Look."

The "famous oral hygienist, Mrs. I. M. N. Anguish," improved all teeth on the spot, supplying all scouts with wax teeth which were promptly showed to the audience.

Scene 4 showed the troop visiting the Minnie Hicks School of Beauty where a model showed correct hair styling for various types of faces—achieved by cardboard faces topped with grotesque hair arrangements.

At the conclusion of the fun, Scouts and parents settled down to the serious court of awards ceremony which honored Cynthia Ackerman, Susan Benzing, Nancilee Clark, Patricia Daugherty, Charlotte Guiher, Diana Hale, Mary Ann Jones, Mary Lou McCullough, Nelaura Orr, Mary Lou Peppard, Shirley Rizer, Nancy Roth, Gay Rosenberg, Priscilla Slabaugh, Janice Smith and Nancy Wolf. Out-door cooks badges also went to Nancy Roth and Priscilla Slabaugh; bird finder badge to Nancy Roth, and Diana Hale was awarded clerk, journalist, writer, public safety, interior decoration and dancer badges. Suzanne Cummins received her Second class award.

The entire program was directed by Mrs. Charles F. Orr, troop leader.

GOP Debate Ends In Draw

PORTLAND, Ore. — (UP) — Both Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota claimed today in their radio debate on a proposal to outlaw the Communist party.

But some supporters of the two candidates for the Republican presidential nomination and listeners who heard the broadcast said it was a draw.

Stassen seemed to abandon his stand for a complete outlawing of the party in favor of the Mundt-Nixon bill which would make it unlawful to attempt in any manner to establish a totalitarian dictatorship in the United States. Dewey said the Mundt-Nixon bill "does not outlaw communism" and is perfectly harmless. He did not say that he would support the bill, however.

New Frost Threat Seen

Although summer is only a little more than a month away, the weatherman predicted today that a light frost might cover the Mansfield area tomorrow morning.

The weatherman said, however, that the next two days would be fair. It has rained in the city area during five out of the last seven days.

The mercury dropped to 46 degrees last night after a late afternoon shower. The thermometer reached 61 at noon today.

The weather bureau's five-day outlook for Ohio follows:

Temperatures will average near normal during the period. Warmer Thursday; cooler Friday and Saturday; showers late Thursday and again about Saturday. Total rainfall about one-half inch.

State Urged To Overhaul Reformatory

Committee Suggests Sweeping Changes

At present, Glattke said, OSR has 240 inmates under 18 in its population of 2,203.

He emphasized that the committee believed that OSR at present has "too much security" to be abandoned as a place for housing of the more dangerous type of criminals; that if the state should decide another penitentiary was needed, it would save money by converting OSR into a "maximum security" institution similar to the penitentiary and use the funds to provide instead the type of institutions the committee felt were needed for the proper care of young offenders and psycopathic and mentally defective persons.

The committee, of which Common Pleas Judge John H. Lamneck of Tuscarawas county is chairman, sent its report to the Ohio Post War Planning commission.

It urged "a complete overhauling" of the Reformatory and "that the Ohio legislature should enact a long-range program that would replace the present outmoded system."

Until the program it recommended is put into effect, the committee said, it recommended "as immediate needs and changes for the Mansfield Reformatory":

1. A complete vocational training school.
2. A well-equipped gymnasium.
3. A modern library with a full-time librarian.
4. Make the Grafton state farm of 2,500 acres a separate administrative unit.
5. Establish an adequate guard training program.
6. Provide better living quarters and recreational facilities at the Reformatory honor camps, so that prisoners will have an incentive to be transferred to such camps for meritorious conduct.

'CREDITABLE WORK'

The committee made clear that it was "casting no reflection on the administrative heads of the various custodial institutions because it felt that they were doing a creditable work with the facilities available, and it is surprising that results are as good as they are."

Pointing out that one of the primary objects of punishment is to reform the offender, the committee said it felt that in Ohio "very little is accomplished along this line because there are no facilities for the segregation and classification of prisoners, and that psycopaths and defectives which constitute about 50 per cent of the penal population are, in most cases, permitted to mingle with the normal 50 per cent, most of whom could be reclaimed for worthwhile citizenship if properly classified, trained, and supervised.

"The releasing of psycopaths and mental defectives, after a minimum period of confinement, who have committed serious criminal offenses, in most cases, is a serious menace to society," it said.

Other specific recommendations of the committee are as follows:

"1. There should be established a central receiving institution to which all prisoners committed for indeterminate terms should be sent by the criminal courts for classification and segregation.

"2. That in addition to the central receiving institution, a number of other institutions should be maintained to include the following:

"(a). An institution for the criminal insane such as the Lima State hospital which is well adapted for the purpose, but is too overcrowded.

"(b). One or more separate institutions to which borderline mental defectives, psycopaths, homosexuals, etc., could be sent by the receiving institution.

"(c): One or more well-equipped and manned institutions for the housing and training of prisoners of normal mentality, with facilities so that prisoners could be classified and segregated. This type of prisoner to be released on parole only when his conduct and training in the institution indicate that there will be no further repetition of criminal offenses.

"(3). If Ohio cannot provide for the classification and segregation of prisoners and maintain a proper training program in institutions for prisoners of normal mentality, then serious consideration should be given to the question whether all indeterminate sentence laws should be repealed, our courts restored with the power to fix definite terms of confinement in each individual case, and our penal institutions be maintained as custodial agencies only.

'Men of Erie,' Contest Story For Pupils

Building of the Railroad Gets Start

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the second chapter in a serialization of "Men of Erie." Four more chapters of the absorbing story of the founding of the Erie railroad will appear in the News-Journal this week. On the basis of this serialization, pupils of Mansfield Senior High and the 10th, 11th, and 12th grades of Madison High school may write an essay of 1,000 words or less in the News-Journal's "Men of Erie" contest. One boy and one girl will be chosen as winners. The prize is an all-expense tour to New York this summer. Deadline for entries is May 28.

CHAPTER II

The morning was crisp and frosty in the valley of the upper Delaware that seventh day of November 1835. A group of men poked through the stubble of an open field near Deposit, N. Y., carrying a shovel, a spade and trundling a wheel barrow. They were hardly laborers. Here was James Gore King, president of the Erie railroad, Lieut. Gov. Root, State Treasurer Stuyvesant, and many other leading statesmen from Albany. Each man shoveled out a barrowful of dirt, wheeled it a short distance away and dumped it. The result was an excavation which could be seen for a number of years from the "track of rails."

These were the first spadefuls turned in the construction of the Erie, and a month later they looked like almost the last. In December, fire raged through the business section of New York City, ruining some of the heaviest subscribers to the new road. Then came the panic of 1836, affecting the economy of the entire country.

Enthusiasm for financing the Erie dwindled to nothing, until the indomitable Eleazar Lord took over from President King. Under Lord the road started to become the "people's choice." He fathered the idea of having the on-line towns raise the necessary money by public subscrition to the stock, with the state matching the amounts. Time and again, in bad times, this precedent kept the company alive. The new chief saw to it that the contracts to lay track 10 miles west from Piermont, and east from Dunkirk were let immediately, and a little later received permission from the board of directors to extend the easterly contract to Goshen.

So far, so good, and then the gifted Eleazar Lord made two exensive mistakes that Erie was many years in rectifying. He insisted on a soon-outdated six-foot gauge and on having the tracks run on an impractical lumber trestle through the Susquehanna Valley, to avoid snow blocks. Despite this, there was progress. Orange and Rockland counties, the only two which had not cooperated before, began to work with Lord, and were actually getting their railroad. Before 1840, the entire line with the exception of the difficult 40 miles between Deposit and Binghamton was under contract, due to the activity in the enthusiastic southern counties.

On the 23rd of September, 1841, under the new president, James Bowen, 'the fine art of railroad junketing was inaugurated. The opening of the Erie through to Goshen was 'the cause for quite a celebration—the first of its kind in the country. The steamboat Utica received a distinguished company at her pier in New York City. Governor Seward and his civil and military staff were there, as were Congressman T. Butler King of Georgia, and Senator Phelps of Vermont. Bishop Onderdonk and the mayor of New York were there, and the party was made complete later on, when the famous wit, Washington Irving joined the party at Piermont.

Edward Mott describes the jaunt . . . "Two trains of cars were in waiting at Piermont to receive the guests and the number filled them more than comfortably. Only two of these were passenger cars, all the company had as yet, the rest being platform cars. The locomotive for the first train was the Orange. The Ramapo drew the second train. The cars sat so low down on their frames, burdened as they were with human beings, as to press the woodwork down upon the wheels, the flanges of which ground into it at every revolution.

But in spite of this, which would be more than enough to start a panic along a railroad excursion party today, the excursionists seemed to have had a most enjoyable trip from the waters of the Hudson to the meadows of Orange county, and they arrived at Goshen, three hours after leaving Piermont, or about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The townspeople, the people from the hills and farms and town for miles around, were there to welcome them with music, flags and guns, and tremendous cheers. The gathering at the station numbered thousands of enthusiastic and wonder-stricken people."

Soon after the opening, the Erie was in financial trouble again and Eleazar Lord returned to the helm. He cleared the company debt with the state legislature. More important, he saved the Erie for the man who was to follow him . . . the man who led the railroad to its triumph.

On August 14th, 1845, Benjamin Loder became president of the Erie. He was a big, powerful man and his activity saved the railroad from inertia. He called a meeting of 22 prominent New York citizens, and raised the better part of three million dollars in one hour. The remainder was made up by soliciting groups, not the least of which was put by the town of Newburgh. There was precedent in this, for in the dark days of the railroad, the village of Middletown had built its own extension to the Erie with the rails torn up from Dunkirk and transported by canal, to connect from Goshen.

After Otisville had been reached and passed in the construction of the road, English iron was no longer available for it could not be imported economically. However, good rail was now close at hand. In 1841, the Scrantons (George W. and Selden T.) had journeyed from their home at Oxford, N. J., where they possessed a small iron forge, across to the hamlet of Slocum Hollow, in the then desolate Lackawanna Valley of northeastern Pennsylvania. Here they found both coal and iron in close proximity. On a small scale they established there an iron works destined to grow to larger size and to become the foundation of a now famous city, to which they gave their name. William E. Dodge, then on the board of directors, arranged for the Scrantons, to make the rails at half the English cost.

New Year's Eve 1847 saw a race against time to bring the first train into Port Jervis before the turn of the year. The citizens and railroad men travelled to the edge of the town only to find that the tracks over the bridge had not been laid. Everybody piled off to help lay track, and rolled over the span 17 minutes before 1848.

It had been no easy job to span the rough terrain over the Shawangunk Mountains, but from Port Jervis west was even worse. The rock-bound river banks called for the famous Erie bridges. There was a quantity of them: some beautifully engineered, like the Starrucca Viaduct.

Starrucca Viaduct, which carries the Erie so stoutly over the Starrucca Creek, just four miles east of Susquehanna, is almost 100 years old now. It was built to accommodate 10 or 15-ton locomotives, yet today this sturdy bluestone bridge may carry a 400-ton locomotive and 125 50-ton cars. When first built, the road was afraid to try running trains over it. In an excess of caution, one crew started an engine across the new bridge and leapt to the ground. At the other end, another crew jumped aboard and stopped it. Such was the science of structural engineering.

With blasting and frightful construction conditions the Erie forged towards Binghamton. Upon arrival, there was another celebration for the first train, which had to battle through a raging snowstorm to make the trip. The New York and Erie railroad was 200 miles long, and for the moment was the longest railroad in the United States.

Yet the party at Binghamton was nothing compared to the one that was given when the road reached Dunkirk. By February 1851, the track had progressed as far as Cuba, within 77 miles of its goal, and in the middle of April, the final spike was driven at Cuba Summit.

May 14, 1851, was the date of the official opening of the road. President Loder had gone through the western counties of the Southern Tier, and had come up with enough money to finish the job. Nothing was spared in the following party. The President of the United States, Millard Fillmore, and four members of his cabinet, Daniel Webster, Governor Marcy of New York, and more mayors and senators than you could shake a stick at were present. Almost every town on the road was a way station for a speech, and at Binghamton the train pulled out with Daniel Webster still talking. The forerunner of the modern club car seems to have been included on the train, for distinct reference is made to the necessity of changing conductors, and some of the great named of the land were said to have "unbent, and dallied perhaps overmuch with the help of the good cheer that prevailed everywhere, without money and without price."

Upon arrival at Dunkirk, the visitors found a table set up some 300 feet in length. The menu deserves quoting: "Chowder, a yoke of oxen, barbequed whole, ten sheep roasted whole, beef a la mode, boiled ham, corned beef, buffalo tongues, bologna sausage, beef tongues (smoked and pickled), 100 roast fowls, coffee, etc. There was pork and beans in tin vessels, holding 50 gallons each. Bread had been baked in loaves 10 feet by two, and so heavy were they that it took the combined strength of two men to carry them. Ranged along the table were barrels of cider to wash down the viands."

Benjamin Loder had taken the task of completing the Erie as planned, and he had accomplished it. The celebration at the end of the road was no more than his due.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

Congress, now trying to adjourn by the opening of the GOP convention on June 19, finds itself faced with more bills than a harassed husband on the first of the month. But the legislators have one consolation. They only have to pass their bills, they don't have to pay 'em.

The Auto as a Lethal Weapon

KILLING of a 52-year-old Shelby man in an auto collision on Springmill road Sunday night again emphasizes that the automobile can be a lethal weapon. Whether it is eventually decided that this particular collision was an accident or the result of negligence, there can be no doubt that the right to drive should be treated with exactly the same seriousness as the right to carry a gun.

Indeed, automobiles kill far more people than guns every year.

Should not murder on the highway be treated as gravely as murder by any other means? Should weapons of traffic murder be entrusted to incompetent, careless, irresponsible persons?

Ohio's driver license law certainly needs an overhauling but that is no hedge for law enforcement officers to hide behind. There is plenty that can be done right now. Almost any day, at downtown intersections it is possible to see a driver—and usually a youthful one—try to beat the orange caution light by putting on a burst of speed and passing ON THE RIGHT other more sensible drivers who are slowing for a stop. A few arrests and stringent penalties for this unlawful practice would be salutary.

Speedways like Marion avenue, neglected until somebody gets killed in a school or shopping zone, are something else that can be corrected immediately.

Carefree youngsters who operate their parents autos, or their own, with about the same degree of sense they would use on a coaster wagon are no help to highway safety. They have no intention of becoming murderers, certainly, but that is what they are likely to become through accident or negligence.

It is time to clamp down.

He Spurred Mansfield's Growth

THE DEATH of E. S. Nail takes from Mansfield another of those leaders who were active during the years of transition from small town to thriving city. Mr. Nail played a recognizable role in stimulating that growth through his business organizational ability and his competence in handling corporation affairs.

The story of a farm boy who turned carpenter and eventually owned the company he worked for should be a tale of inspiration to any young man of today who may think that the world and a paternalistic government owe him a living.

Mr. Nail's important role in insurance and banking in the community did not overshadow his religious interests. He remained active in the Central Methodist church, which he helped found, for as long as his health would permit.

Although he had been ill and comparatively inactive for ten months his passing must stir other men to think what can be accomplished by application and determination in the way of business and religious growth of the community.

'Bounty Recruit' System Failed

"ASININE" is President Truman's description of the proposal by Congressman Leo Allen of Illinois, chairman of the House Military Affairs committee, to pay $1,000 or $1,500 to volunteers. This plan would be a substitute for the draft. It was strong language on the part of the president, but justified.

Congressman Allen evidently has not looked into the military history of the United States, as the chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs should do. The bonus system has been tried again and again, and bred nothing but waste and scandal. In the Revolution congress and the states bid against each other, raising their offers until each volunteer received $200 from congress and more from the states, New Jersey paying as high as $1,000. Richer districts would entice volunteers from poorer, till some sections were almost stripped of manpower.

It was worse in the Civil war. Bounty-jumping became a profession. A man would enlist, claim his bonus, desert, and often re-enlist under another name. One man enlisted 32 times. Bounty-broking proved profitable to others, who lined up recruits for a commission, regardless of how unfit for army service these recruits might be. In the four years from 1861 to 1865 it has been estimated that the bounty system, which Congressman Allen would revive, cost over $750,000,000. This was for the North alone. What it would cost for a united country, with a population four times as large, staggers the imagination.

Peron SAYS He'll Get Out

DICTATOR PERON of Argentina says that he will not run again for the presidency. The Argentine Constitution provides a single term of six years, and forbids re-election, though the same president may come back after a six-year interim during which another man is president. With Peron's friends controlling the congress, an amendment might be passed in time to let him change his mind. He has four years more of his present term.

Dictators who give up power voluntarily are few. Non-Argentines will keep their fingers crossed for the next four years.

The Proposition of the Preposition

WINSTON CHURCHILL recently took a crack at the old rule that a preposition should not be used to end a sentence. A memorandum of his, sent to the foreign office, contained such a sentence, and was duly returned to him with a circle around the offending preposition, a query in the margin. Churchill wrote back in high dudgeon, "This is arrant pedantry, up with which I will not put."

Warren Called Formidable Candidate

SACRAMENTO—When Robert G. Sproul, president of the University of California, places Governor Earl Warren in nomination at the Philadelphia Republican convention, the country will realize that a really formidable candidate has appeared on the scene.

In 1944, Warren did not seek the nomination and did not seem to want it. He was the favorite for vice president, but firmly refused. Things are different now. He still does not want the second place, but he is an active, serious candidate for President. Warren, as well as everyone of his supporters, is imbued with a feeling that time and circumstance will be favorable.

Throughout his career Warren has shown an excellent sense of timing which, in politics, is indispensable. His judgment about when and how to run for the various offices he has won has always been justified by the result.

In 1944 he refused the nomination for vice president despite the urging not only of his delegation but of Candidate Dewey. His reason was that his candidacy would hurt, not help, the national ticket in California, because the people of that state expected him to finish the job to which he had been elected two years before. This decision was probably right in principle. Certainly, it was practical in the light of the result in November.

* * *

Never Defeated.

Warren has never been defeated for public office. He took his time about seeking a state office while he held the position of district attorney in Oakland for 13 years. On the other hand, he has maintained no coy reluctance to announce his candidacy this year such as has characterized the attitude of Senator Vandenburg.

While Taft, Stassen and Dewey are tearing each other apart, Warren is pursuing his own course. It can be categorically denied that anything like a deal with any other candidate exists. It has been rumored that Stassen or Taft would make him Attorney General. Such rumors are, it should be added, not the personal suggestions of Stassen or Taft. The answer is that Warren has a better job now than that of Attorney General. It has also been rumored that an emissary of Dewey has seen Warren in Sacramento. Warren has seen no such person. Other rumors of this sort will pop up and they can be ignored. Warren is running only for the Presidency.

Warren's supporters make several major points for his availability as a candidate. He is calm, logical and judicial in approaching problems of government. As an administrator, he takes plenty of time in appointing a department head and then expects that department head to exercise the same care in selecting people for the lower levels of government.

The roots of Warren's life are in labor. But as governor he has attempted to induce labor to see its interest in the light of a larger public interest. Despite the pressure of labor leaders, he permitted an anti-secondary boycott bill to become law, and he signed a bill outlawing jurisdictional strikes. He then went before a labor convention and appealed successfully to the rank and file over the heads of the leaders.

Timely Editorial

They Won't Reduce

It is becoming quite evident that the federal bureaucracy has no intention whatever of reducing its unwieldy, cotly army of workers. On the contrary, the numbers of federal employes is again on the upswing and now is well past two million as compared with some 900,000 at the height of the old New Deal before the war and a comparative handful of half a million before that.

A great point was made, shortly after the war, of the reduction in the federal payroll from the wartime three million odd. Most of that reduction represented the disbanding of the military's great army of civilian workers. The agencies of the federal government that are civilian have not only generally refused to pare their payrolls but many actually have increased them in the post-war years.

This only proves an age-old truth, namely, that a bureaucracy can only expand and that nothing less than a superior outside force can halt its choking growth over the nation.—Columbus Dispatch.

Praise From a General

Editor, Mansfield News-Journal:

There are several reasons why I want to congratulate your paper on winning an illuminated scroll in the Seventh Annual American Newspaper Publishers Association - International Circulation Managers Association Safe Driving Contest.

In the first place, this highly successful performance combines an educational campaign for traffic safety with an effective program for safer operation of the fast-moving motor fleets used by newspaper publishers.

In the second place, your co-operation with the National Committee for Traffic Safety forges another and powerful link in the chain of events and effort that can reduce the toll of death and injury on our streets and highways.

And finally, your achievement provides an ideal demonstration of the kind of action recommended by the President's Highway Safety Conference as set forth in the current program "A Job for the State in '48."

Sincerely yours,
PHILIP B. FLEMING,

Washington Calling

'Berlin Push' Rumored

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON From all over Europe comes the rumor that the Russians intend to push the U. S., Britain and France out of Berlin by June 30. Foreign Minister Molotov may well have decided to exploit the American note of May 4 in the game he is playing to force the western powers to abandon their isolated position.

The time has come, it seems to me, to re-examine the policy of the western powers on Berlin. It was altogether too easy to assume, after the uproar of some weeks ago had subsided, that the Russians had given up on Berlin. The U. S. has believed that the western powers could maintain their position in the German capital regardless of what the Russians might do.

But there is another point of view that should be considered. It comes from the French, who have been deeply concerned over British-U. S. policy in Germany.

While they have reluctantly gone along with the plans to set up a separate German administration in the zones occupied by the western powers, they have several times pointed out the dangers in creating bi-zonia or tri-zonia. Only recently they made strong representations to the state department.

The French believe that, in setting up a separate bi-zonal or tri-zonal administration, the western powers will lay themselves open to a Russian charge that they no longer have any real business in Berlin. The four power occupation of the capital exists theoretically in order to develop a government for all of Germany under the terms of the Potsdam agreement. With their great sense of logic, the French point out that the Russians can say:

"Since you have formed a separate government for your part of Germany, you can have no more reason to stay in Berlin. Therefore we must ask you to go, since Berlin is in the Soviet zone and since the Soviet zone is now a separate entity."

The French also talk of the "calculated risk" and wonder if the U. S. has taken into account the hazards in our German policy. They draw an analogy with French policy before World War I, when the French understood very well that each step they took in Morocco risked eventual war with Germany. To make such a calculated risk, a nation must have the resources to act if it turns out badly.

Following a provocative policy, the U. S. and Britain do not have the resources in manpower to buttress a failure.

* * *

Why French Worry.

The grave concern of the French can be put down, of course, to the fact that they live next door to the dynamite mill. If the Russians determine to push the western powers out of Berlin and if war follows, as it probably would, France would be occupied in ten days or two weeks.

The fact that this is an election year in the United States, with the odds heavy on a new administration, makes it impossible to put a new ambassador in Moscow at this point. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith has served for two years; and reports from Moscow indicate that he is in a state of intense irritability, his nerves worn down by the constant pressure of Soviet antagonism.

The best evidence indicates that Russia does not want war and will go a long way to avoid a shooting war. She will continue to press for her objectives short of war. It is just here that negotiations, conducted perhaps by a new man with sufficient background but without the nervous tensions built up through two years of cold war, might bring about what the Washington Post has aptly called an "accommodation" with the Soviet Union.

Royall Uses Resignation Threat

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Defense James Forrestal and Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall had a secret session with the Senate Armed Services committee the other day at which Royall stated that he would resign before ordering segregation abolished in the Army.

This significant incident took place after Southern senators mutinied against the draft bill and demanded a guarantee that white inductees would not be forced to serve with Negroes.

Immediately a four-bell alarm was put through to Secretary of Defense Forrestal. He hurried up to Capitol Hill, bringing with him as a reinforcement Secretary Royall, a native of North Carolina.

Forrestal explained to senators that any amendment protecting the right of an inductee to serve exclusively with members of his own race would be "unworkable from an administrative point of view."

Senator Russell of Georgia however, brushed this aside. Picking up a copy of the President's civil rights message, Russell read:

"During the recent war and in the years since its close we have made much progress toward equality of opportunity in our armed services without regard to race, color, religion or national origin. I (Truman) have instructed the secretary of defense to take steps to have the remaining instances of discrimination in the armed services eliminated as rapidly as possible."

"What about this?" demanded the senator from Georgia, laying down the message and glaring at Forrestal. It looked, observed Russell, as if the Secretary of Defense had a directive from his Commander-in-Chief to abolish segregation.

* * *

Royall To Rescue.

FORRESTAL mumbled that there was no cause for alarm. Whereupon Royall interceded: "I don't believe that was in the mind of the President. If such a provision is put into operation, I will no longer be secretary of the army."

Forrestal remarked that the alarm of some members of the committee is ill-advised, but Russell and Maybank of South Carolina stuck to their guns.

"I am not going to vote for any bill, not knowing what the President is going to do," snapped Maybank.

The above amendment upholding segregation was not submitted by Russell, as reported in the press, but by an anti-segregation Yankee, New Hampshire's Senator Styles Bridges. Bridges made it clear, however, he did not support the bill, only offered it "for discussion."

Actually Russell had introduced an earlier amendment, recognizing only two races—the "principal minority race" and all other Americans. It further stipulated that officers disobeying the segregation clause would be court-martialed for "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman."

Maj. Gen. Verne D. Mudge Army adviser to the Senate Armed Services committee approved Russell's general idea, but suggested toning down the language.

Southern senators accepted this sugar-coated, rewritten amendment, but Senator Russell appealed for "someone outside the South" to introduce it. That was how Bridges happened to agree to bring it up for discussion, though not to support it. After hearing it read, however, he gasped, "My God, I'm sick" and walked out.

When the debate reached the voting point, Oregon's Senator Wayne Morse protested against taking the roll call in secret.

"I want no secrecy," he blurted. "I have been accused of leaking information to Drew Pearson, and I don't want a secret vote then be blamed when it appears in Drew Pearson's column."

So the results of the vote were announced 7 to 4 against the segregation amendment, but not how each Senator voted. However, here is the secret roll call: Hill of Alabama, Byrd of Virginia, Maybank of South Carolina voted "present" on the final bill, but with Russell for the amendment. Gurney of South Dakota, Wilson of Iowa, Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Morse of Oregon and Baldwin of Connecticut voted against segregation. Gurney also held the proxy of Wyoming's Robertson, Bridges stayed away, and Kilgore of West Virginia was absent.

GOP Economy.

NEBRASKA'S economy-preaching Senator Kenneth Wherry sent off 93 political telegrams the other day, and charged them to the U. S. government whose funds he is always slashing.

Wherry wired at government expense to 93 Republican county chairmen in Nebraska as follows:

"Please convey my sincere greeting to your Republican county convention and regret I cannot join you . Your session is vital for it fixes the grass-roots pattern for success we can confidently anticipate if everyone does his share in behalf of our common goal."

When political opponents exposed what he had done, Wherry hurriedly paid up the bill, claimed the Western Union operator had made a mistake.

Weizmann Saved Allies

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON — Dr. Chaim Weizmann, the 73-year-old first president of the new Jewish nation of Israel, is a man to whom the democracies of the world owe perhaps their greatest individual debt—a debt involving their sheer survival.

Twice, in the past three decades, one of his many scientific discoveries has been vital to the victories of the allied democracies over totalitarian powers.

During the first world war, it provided the allies with plenty of acetone for smokeless gunpowder, in a time of critical shortage. During the second world war, it provided the allies with plenty of butyl alcohol for synthetic rubber, again in a time of critical shortage.

Several weeks ago, I stood on the grounds of the Weizmann Institute at Rehovoth, near Tel Aviv, and had the story told to me by scientific associates of the man who now is Israel's new president.

At the time, there was skirmishing going on along the Tel Aviv-Jaffa border not far away, and the conversation seemed strangely unreal and academic under the circumstances. Later, back home, I confirmed every point of the story from men high in American scientific and military circles.

To start at the beginning, the choice of Chaim Weizmann came as a surprise to many students of Palestine politics who had expected the vital post to go to David Ben Gurion, world-renowned Zionist leader.

But Ben Gurion unquestionably dominated the decision which chose Weizmann, and there were many reasons.

In the field of science, for instance, he is one of perhaps a half-dozen recognized world leaders. A list of his contributions which have benefited mankind the world over would require the rest of this column and still would be but a beginning.

In the field of democracy, he has served variously as statesman, educator and scientist. In those circles, he is perhaps as well known in England and America as he is in Israel. In addition, Europe certainly knows him, and Hitler certainly feared him—and with reason!

In the field of Palestine pioneering, his work at the Danial Seiff Research Institute—which now has become the Weizmann Institute, and much enlarged, in his honor—has been responsible for the major proportion of the agricultural and industrial development of the new Israel, which he always contended would have to be self-sufficient to survive. No single man has done so much to make it self-sufficient. Thus he epitomizes the factors which have built the new Jewish nation.

All of those points undoubtedly contributed to his selection as Israel's first president. But even more important, practically speaking, was the existence of the aforementioned debt which every world democracy knows it owes him.

For, in order to survive, the world's newest democracy must be able to get along with the established democracies—and few doors will be closed to Dr. Chaim Weizmann.

This is the reason:

Apart from the atomic bomb, scientists probably would agree today that the discovery most responsible for allied victories in both world wars was a process now known as clostridium acetobutylicum Weizmann.

In layman's language, it simply is a process for manufacture of acetone and butyl alcohol by fermentation.

Back before the first world war, Chaim Weizmann was convinced that there must be a practical, commercial method of producing synthetic rubber. Momentarily, it was merely a scientific problem, but night after night, when his associates were fast asleep, he worked his laboratory, experimenting with one method after another, and casting them aside.

* * *

Aid for Allies.

Seeking a bacterium that would produce higher alcohols, in the same way as yeast produces ordinary alcohol, Weizmann finally discovered in ordinary corn a micro-organism which is capable of converting carbohydrates such as sugar and starch into acetone and butyl alcohol.

When, during the first world war, the allies ran short of acetone, a key ingredient in smokeless gunpowder, British Munitions Minister David Lloyd George asked Weizmann to leave Manchester university and convert his discovery into a technical process. He did, and although starch was scarce in Britain, factories soon were built in Canada and the United States and supplied plenty of acetone to meet the gunpowder need.

Farmer's Diary

A Love For Animals

By CALVIN A. BYERS

Watch the farm boy who loves animals! There is a kind of kinship and mutual trust between the sleek black and white heifer and the growing lad. He slips a strong boyish arm around her neck and strokes her head between the sprouted horns, talking to her gently all the time. I can feel real affection flowing between the yearling heifer and the boy.

A little Hampshire pig comes past and speaks insistent language. With some feed in his hand, the boy lures it to him and picks it up, stroking it behind the ears. Greedily it feasts with its pink snout buried in milk and meal. This one, chosen for the Junior Fair, and favored, has grown amazingly, and follows close like a milk-fed lamb. Proudly, with a finger, the boy unwinds an extra curl in the small pigtail.

The two calves, born the same day, but not twins, know this boy, too. Racing across the lot, they come when he calls, for a gentle stroking. And if he lies down, in the lot, on the warm corn cobs, they never fail to come and lie down close beside him. It is a sight to see them there, content together.

A chipmunk does not fear to stand upright upon a post and look when this boy goes by. Wild life—birds and squirrels and wild game—allow him to share their presence without fear. Wild things seem to know the depth and force that dwells in what prompts the kindness of human hearts.

For my own part, I have always believed that even the vegetation on a farm is better for its owner's love. Young trees, for example, respond to affection, surely. And when a man sees a tree he has planted and nurtured with its first small friuts beginning to swell it is a very real thrill. I know, for I have felt it, just yesterday.

Feeding time, on the farm, is time when strange animal traits are expressed most vividly. It ought to be a pleasant time for the farmer and for his stock. And when a farm boy goes whistling to do his chores, looking forward happily to a visit with friendly pets, a fine atmosphere is created about that farm that travels far beyond a small acreage and has its effect upon the nation, not only in better milk and meat, but in better citizenship for the country's future.

FACTS ABOUT PILES

Piles (hemorrhoids) are but one of various disorders of the rectum, and appear in widely varying degree of severity.

Although a majority of adults have slight cases of piles, which apparently do not affect their health and well being, they can and do contribute to headaches, upset stomach, constipation, back ache, leg ache and general nervous exhaustion.

The milder cases of piles can be successfully treated, and need not be removed, but in more advanced cases, of long standing, only removal will provide lasting results. There is no single, private treatment for all cases of piles, regardless of their nature or development. Each case must be individually treated, with proper consideration for the nature of the disorder, its severity, the patients general condition, age, and many other factors.

Only an experienced, qualified doctor of rectal diseases can properly diagnose, and safely and successfully treat the various types of rectal disorders. Make sure for your own protection.

OPTI-MRS. CLUB NAMES 4 COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN

Organization's Year Book In Draft Form Presented to Members By Mrs. Thomas Schacher.

MRS. F. M. WADSWORTH entertained 12 members of the Opti-Mrs. club Monday night in her home on Glenwood boulevard. The meeting was opened with the reading of the Optimist creed.

Mrs. Thomas Schacher presided for the business meeting and appointed the following members to serve as committee chairmen: Mrs. Bryce McMahon, membership; Mrs. Leonard Hurwitz, finance, Mrs. John Swank, remembrance, and Mrs. Wadsworth, welfare. This last committee is to investigate girls needing assistance from the club, the primary purpose of the organization.

A draft of the club booklet was presented by Mrs. Schacher and approved by the members. It contains the constitution and by-laws, a list of the charter members, officers, committee chairmen, the club motto: "The Friend of the Girl," the Optimist creed, and the program for the last half of 1948.

The booklet will be printed and presented to the members at the September meeting.

A buffet lunch was served at the close of the evening by the hostesses, Mrs. Wadsworth and Mrs. Hurwitz. The table was centered with a mixed bouquet of spring flowers and white candles burned in the candelabra which flanked the centerpiece.

The club's next meeting will be a picnic Sunday, June 20, at Mrs Schacher's home on Park avenue west road. Mrs. Harvey Anderson will serve as associate hostess. Husbands of members will be invited to attend the affair.

Miss Glorioso Wed to Mr. Erdenberger

In a quiet ceremony in the parsonage of St. Peter's Catholic Church the Rev. Virgil Reidlinger married Miss Rose Marie Glorioso, daughter of Salvatore Glorioso, 367 Spring Mill street, and John E. Erdenberger, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Erdenberger, R. D. No. 4, May 8 at 10:30 a. m.

The bride wore an egg shell gabardine suit with white accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias encircled with yellow Talisman roses.

Miss Mary Parry, maid of honor, was attired in a pale pink gabardine suit with gray accessories. Her corsage was of yellow Talisman roses.

Anthony Glorioso, brother of the bride, served as best man.

The bride's two sisters, Mrs. Mary Dinger and Mrs. Austin White, wore corsages of pink carnations. The groom's mother had a corsage of red and white carnations.

SPEAKING FOR MYSELF—

As one who has for years watched Milton Berle floating from table to table in Lindy's bombarding friend and foe alike with rapid fire gags: as one who has giggled at Henny Youngman's punch lines on windy street corners and guffawed when Jackie Gleason clowned in Toots Shor's, I am more than casually interested in Hank Ladd's reformatory, "Comedians Anonymous."

This club, therapeutic as well as social in nature, aims to break comedians and gag writers of the habit of being funny—or attempting to be funny—24 hours a day.

It presumes that trying for laughs on an amateur basis starts as a character weakness but develops rapidly into a vice, annoying to society and harmful to the habit's slave, and it admits that the cure is not easy.

In fact, the organization bears more than fleeting resemblance to Alcoholics Anonymous.

★

Comedians Anonymous recognizes, according to Mr. Ladd, that a comic can't fight this thing alone.

He can best conquer the awful habit when he is surrounded and encouraged by men of his own kind who have been through the same thing themselves and know the full measure of his temptation.

They advise quitting the habit cold. They believe there is no such thing as being able to take it or leave it.

However, they never scold a comic who goes on an ad lib binge. They have even worked out a "giggling off" process for comedians who find it tough going.

They try to keep them away from restaurant wise-cracking, elevator clowning and taxicab heckling by proper rest, exercise and correct diet, and by putting them in company with people who never crack a smile.

This last is a strong measure, but in many cases it is necessary. It is their form of straitjacket.

★

Some of the more experienced members of Comedians Anonymous believe that instead of a punch line such as "I thought I shot you in the eight pocket," or "Hello, Henry, what's old?" the patient should reach for a candy bar or malted milk instead.

Others swear by the psychological association - physical effect gimmick. They say to a comic, "Our neighborhood was so tough a cat with ears was a tourist" and immediately feed him something to upset his digestion.

Or they play a record that blasts, over and over, the line "I don't have any financial problems —I sell Governor Folsom lipstick remover," until the patient actually gets sea-sick. And so on until nothing but the combination of a stage, a microphone and a spotlight will make him utter a funny remark.

I wish Comedians Anonymous all the luck in the world. I applaud their motives and I cheer their efforts. And why not?

After all, if they succeed, they may make Toots Shor's safe again, even for a girl in a new hat.

Jolly Aiders Hold Closing Meeting

The Jolly Aiders Club met at the home of Mrs. Paul Bruce, 227 Miller street, Monday evening with six members and four guests present. Mrs. June Mapp, Mrs. G. P. Anderson, Mrs. Jimmy Seay and Mrs. Robert Shrewsberry were the guests. The traveling gift of the evening was won by Mrs. Ray Bowersock. Refreshments were served at a late hour by the hostess.

The meetings are postponed for the summer months until the first of September.

It is helpful to include quick mixes for cakes, cookies, biscuits and waffles on an emergency shelf. Packaged custard pudding and tapioca desserts are also useful. Canned soups are convenient to include not only to use 'as is" but for sauces for a main course dish.

CERVELAT AND SPANISH RICE—Attractive and tasty enough for supper guests, this platter of Cervelat and Spanish Rice appeals to the clever hostess who wants to remain unruffled at her party. It can be prepared beforehand and popped into the broiler for the length of time it takes to fill water glasses. The cervelate slices, cut paper thin, are placed on top of a platter of Spanish Rice. Then the whole thing is placed under the broiler until the cervelat slices become delightfully crisp.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, May 19.

THE planetary aspects in certain particulars sound warning to move cautiously and prudently in those affairs in which all sorts of assets, possessions and funds as well as personal desire, hope and wishes, are in flagrant jeopardy. Snares, connivance and trickery are aimed at deep-rooted strata for success and happiness. Alert, adroit grasp of this, with shrewd and determined attack upon subtlety and malice, dragging them into the open, could beget rich rewards, albeit with change of plans, perhaps fresh environs and associates. Act quickly to this end.

Those whose birthday it is are admonished to safeguard all possessions, assets, plans, hopes and objectives, from a sinister, pernicious and tricky onslaught, especially in false promises, plans and deals, in which hidden undercurrents should be dragged to the front and summarily dealt with. The mind is alert and clever, equipped for determined attack, and the character grounded on principle and right purpose for untimate success and happiness.

Carelessness Responsible For Muddles

Harriman Speaks Out of Turn

By WALTER LIPPMANN

If the administration is not careful, it is going to get into another messy muddle—this time with Great Britain. On the critically important matter of our relations with the sterling area. Mr. Harriman in a press interview in London has said that we are considering our policy without saying what our policy is.

Now the exchange rate of the dollar and the pound sterling—the two leading currencies of the world—is known to be vulnerable, subject to speculative raids, to illicit transactions, and to frightened withdrawals. In dealing with a highly sensitive matter of this kind to announce that you are considering a policy—before you have in fact considered it, formulated it, and reached agreement about it—is to make much more difficult the problem that you hope to solve when you have considered your policy.

This is emphatically a subject which no one with Mr. Harriman's responsibility ought to say anything about until full agreement has been reached in private between the British government and the American on the rate at which we are prepared to make the pound and the dollar freely convertible.

The mere suggestion that in this matter there could be an American policy, as distinct from a British-American policy, is dangerous, and should promptly be disavowed.

For the world's business, and the European Recovery Program, require a joint solution of the problem of the pound and the dollar, and the merest hint that the administration could consider a unilateral American policy is to introduce a new element of disorder into a situation which is very precarious.

Here again, as in the Smith-Molotov episode, there is no lack of good intentions, but a surprising want of the knowledge of how great public affairs are conducted. Would any one who had to run a country bank announce in the newspapers that some day, when he got around to it, he would announce plans for reorganization of of the bank? Or would any one who wished to talk privately on an important matter fail to make it clear that the conversation was meant to be private?

W. AVERELL HARRIMAN

CARE NECESSARY

The Smith-Molotov episode, and the spectacle in Washington which followed it, show, it seems to me, that the most urgent business of the state department is to think out carefully how it is going to conduct its diplomacy. The "American policy makers" would do well to take time out from policy making in order to make up their minds about the technique and procedure of diplomatic intercourse, not only with Russia but also with our partners and allies.

For that is where they came a cropper in this recent affair. It is quite true that Ambassador Smith's statement to Molotov marked no change in American policy on any question at issue. But it marked the adoption of a different procedure and technique for dealing with the Soviet government. It was an experiment in the revival of the classic method of diplomacy—which is to exchange carefully drafted documents that are treated as confidential until there is an agreement to publish them.

This diplomatic method is in constant use as between the United States and Great Britain, France, and almost every other country, including the Arab states and the Russian satellite states. In minor matters it is used even with the Soviet Union.

The novelty in the affair of May 4 was the use of this same method to begin discussions of the great issues which have proved insoluble in the conferences and in the U.N.

There is no reason to suppose that Mr. Molotov would have refused to try the method if it had been made plain to him that we were trying a different method. It is said that you cannot trust the Russians and that if it suited them they would have published the statements. They could not and would not have published our statement if it had been preceded by an inquiry as to whether the Soviet government cared to receive a confidential statement which was not to be published except by agreement. And there would have been no misunderstanding in London and Paris if in the inquiry we had also said that we intended to communicate the contents of the statement to London and Paris as soon as we had received a reply from Mr. Molotov.

These details of procedure cannot be neglected in diplomacy. Without them, a policy, however well conceived, can be as embarrassing as a suit of clothes, however well designed, on which the tailor has forgotten to sew the buttons.
